Skylights

The VELUX logo is displayed in white, bold, sans-serif capital letters on a red rectangular background. A registered trademark symbol (®) is located to the upper right of the 'X'.

Established in 1975, VELUX America is a branch of the VELUX Group charged with marketing and selling VELUX roof windows and skylights in the United States. VELUX has been providing daylight and fresh air to people worldwide for over 60 years.

Building owners, occupants, and code officials are increasingly sensitive to energy use (and costs), and are demanding more and more efficiency from the products they buy and endorse. Favorable federal tax treatment and the ever-growing "green building" movement serve to reinforce this fact.

VELUX products meet those demands. With more than 90% of their production ENERGY STAR® qualified in all United States climate zones, you know that enhancing your spaces can be done with efficient solutions.

VELUX develops, manufactures and markets products that provide and control daylight and fresh air in buildings. Their activities involve the procurement and processing of natural resources. This places upon us a direct obligation towards the environment.

EMTEK®

Emtek is dedicated to bringing interesting, well made hardware back into American homes. Until about 1930, there was a proud history of hardware in America. Hundreds of small factories made an enormous variety of creatively designed products. Craftsmen from many disciplines devoted their energies to making locks that provided both function and beauty.

Unfortunately, during the depression many of these factories failed, and then during World War II brass became scarce and lock designs were reduced to the bare essentials. In more recent years the emphasis on cheap, high volume building products has discouraged manufacturers from re-introducing well made hardware.

But now these ideas are changing, Americans are re-discovering the satisfaction that comes from owning well designed products. Emtek's mission is to make it possible for home owners to apply these higher expectations to door locks. Emtek strives to provide a broad, interesting range of products that consumers can use as elements of decor, not just as a way to latch a door.
