

Flooring

Berg & Berg

Under the skillful leadership of Jan Soderberg, Berg & Berg of Sweden continues to produce some of the finest engineered wood flooring in the world. They control the process from the forest to the factory floor. Berg & Berg's association with the 50,000 Swedish forest owners of the Sodra group now gives them access to a renewable supply of both fine textured Northern Oak and Ash for the wear layers and stable Swedish pine for the core. With the increase in the Wide Plank floors, we have decided to closeout our inventory of unfinished White Oak 3 Strip. Being unfinished, it can be used to create any look you want. It is a great chance to save on a truly great floor.

Panelling / Flooring

J100 1x6 Southern Yellow Pine Knotty TG SE

This warm knotty wood offers the look of a traditional pine floor but with the same hardness as Douglas Fir. The lumber is very well manufactured to a square edge profile and is ideal for floors, ceilings or panelling. It is ideally suited for highlight walls when run horizontally. The wood can be easily finished to fit the design. Here are a few of the most popular choices.

Bodyguard

Bodyguard treated pine sidings have been used successfully in New Zealand since the 1970's and for well over a decade here in Northern California. The wood is sourced from the Radiata (Monterey) Pine plantation forests of New Zealand. Bodyguard's durability comes from its treatment process. EPA approved fungicides, primarily used in food crop protection and an EPA approved insecticide are used to give the lumber its rot and termite resistance. A 30 year limited warranty is provided on all properly installed Bodyguard products. The most remarkable fact is that these beautiful, well-mangaged pine forests were created from seedlings collected from trees in the Monterey and Santa Cruz area of California some hundred years ago. At a full 3/4" thick these profiles are a great natural wood siding alternative.
